

InterACT User Code of Conduct

This Code of Conduct applies to users of InterACT workflows and any other Schlumberger Real Time enabled software and services. These services allow users to download, post or share content with others, and display or link to this Code of Conduct.

Please read this Code of Conduct and supplemental information below for additional details about particular services that you may use.

As a user of the service you will uphold this Code of Conduct, and are responsible for all activities and content you download/post/upload.

In addition to upholding this Code of Conduct, you are responsible for adhering to all applicable local and national laws.

Prohibited Uses

You will not download, upload, post, transmit, transfer, distribute or facilitate distribution of any content (including text, images, sound, video, data, information or software) or otherwise use the service in a way that:

- Is illegal or violates any applicable local, national and international laws; including but not limited to: Data transfer restrictions such as a nation or corporation's data access or residency laws, trade control laws, along side all applicable laws relating to public decency and social norms;
- Is a use outside the scope of the permitted uses for InterACT (uses relating to content for the oil and gas, carbon or water service businesses), notwithstanding whether such a use is legal;
- Includes content that is protected by intellectual property laws, rights of privacy or publicity, or any other applicable law unless you own or control the rights thereto or have received all necessary consents;
- Includes, affects or accesses content from a company or organization other than that which you are specifically authorized to access and/or modify;
- Misrepresents the source of anything you download, post or upload, including impersonation of another individual or entity;
- Provides or creates links to external sites that violate this Code of Conduct;.
- Invades anyone's privacy by attempting to harvest, collect, store, or publish private or personally identifiable information, such as passwords, account information, credit card numbers, addresses, company affiliations or other contact information without their knowledge and willing consent;
- Harms or disrupts, or intends to harm or disrupt, another user's or company's computer(s) or would allow you or others to illegally access software or bypass security on Web sites, or servers, including but not limited to spamming;.
- Attempts to reverse engineer InterACT; or

- Attempts to impersonate a Schlumberger employee, agent, manager, host, administrator, moderator, another user or any other person through any means.

You will not use any form of automated device or computer program that enables the retrieval or submission of information or data without the express written consent of Schlumberger.

Termination and Cancellation

Schlumberger reserves the right, at its sole discretion, and without any obligation to do so, to review and remove user-created services and content at will and without notice, and delete content and accounts. Schlumberger reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to ban participants or terminate access to services.

Rights and Responsibilities

You are responsible for protecting your computer against interference, spyware or viruses that may be encountered for downloaded items from the service. We recommend you ensure compliance with your company IT standards and/or install a virus protection program on your computer and keep it up to date.

Schlumberger reserves the right to amend or change the Code of Conduct or any service at any time without notice. We encourage you to periodically review these guidelines to ensure you are in compliance.

Some information you download, provide or upload to the service may be stored outside of the country in which you reside unless explicitly forbidden in which case specific in country data hubs can be provided by Schlumberger.

All activity on the service is also governed by the InterACT Terms and Conditions.

Thank you for using the services and honoring this Code of Conduct!

- Updated: August 2008
- © 2008 Schlumberger